Dr. J. J. Caidwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Bufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodical attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Pallistive measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the det is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two anti-kammis tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one anti-kammis tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, easet the pain and brings rest and quiet. A. F. H. SCOTT WEDS GERTRUDE VROOMAN

Home of Bride's Parents Scene of Ceremony Culminating High School Romance.

One of the prettiest of home wedday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents in Massachusetts avenue, when Miss Gertrude Sherman Vrooman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest French Vrooman, became the bri Fendall-Hannay Scott.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends by the Rev. W. I. Kenney, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of Annapolis, Md., assisted by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Greene, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church. The ceremony was followed by a buffet luncheon.

The decorations were palms, ferns Easter lilies, pink azaleas, and roses. The bride, who was given in mar-riage by her father, wore a suit of fawn Poiree twill, with white fox furs, and a picture hat of gray straw and old blue satin. Her corsage bouquet was of gardenias and orchids Miss Helen Strong, daughter of Mrs. Blanche Turner Strong, who was the bride's only attendant, wore a smart plaid suit of black and white, with a large white picture hat, and corsagbouquet of gardenias and pink sweet peas. Little Julia Cookman, cousin of the bride, carried a delicate em-broidered white satin basket, in which the ring rested. Norwood Bessling acted as best man. Mrs. Vrooman, mother of the bride, wore a becoming gown of midnight blue chiffon taffeta, trimmed in georgette crepe, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias and purple sweet peas. Miss Sarah Hannay, aunt of the bridegroom, wore a handsome gown of black net embroidered in gold over black satin, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias and lavender sweet peas. Miss Scott, sister of the bridegroom, wore a pretty gown of white lace over white satin, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias and

HOW TO WASH WOOLENS

-Blankets, Sweaters, Babies' Woolens

Wool is made up of fibers, each one of which is covered with scales like fish

When you rub or twist woolens, in washing, these tiny scales interlockthe fibers draw up, and the fabric "mats."

With Lux No Rubbing Is Necessary

Lux-pure essence of soap in flakes -melts completely the moment hot water is poured on it. Let woolens soak in this hot, rich, soapy solution for a few minutes, then stir them about in the lather gently, and dip them up and down repeatedly Rinse thoroughly in three relays of water of the same temperature in which you washed them, dry on a bright, sunny day, and you have snow-white, fluffy woolens, as fleecy and soft as on the day you bought Wonderful Results!

Try Lux. Try it with hot water! Lux won't injure anything that pure water alone won't injure. No matter what soap you use now - see for yourself what a remarkable difference Lux
